City of Fort Wayne
City-County Building
Fort Wayne, Indiana 46802

Dear Council Members:

It is with pleasure that I submit this application for activation of the Educational Access channel. I believe that the time is right and that the public access facility is uniquely suited to be the agency that can get the channel on the air quickly and in a way which will build for growth over the coming years.

The philosophical approach that is the underlying basis for our proposal is that the channel needs to be in the control of the users themselves. This follows from the purpose of access television which exists to enable citizens to exercise their right to free speech. Our role in the project will be to act as a catalyst and to coordinate the efforts of those involved from the various schools.

We will teach the students and teachers how to do their own productions so they can teach others. We will "teach them how to fish" rather than "fishing" for them. We will direct our efforts so that, in the future, there will be an experienced users group ready, able, and willing to take over the operation of the Educational Access channel.

Instead of having one production facility that would have to be tightly scheduled and shared by all the schools, we believe that having remote production sites at various schools is the best approach. These remote studios will allow for a greater number of productions to be done by more schools, and will be in direct control of the schools themselves.

The Allen County Public Library will provide many resources necessary for the success of this project and will keep the operating costs low. The Library will provide utilities, telephone, office space, insurance and ongoing maintenance for the educational access equipment at no cost to the project. Another resource is the fact that many departments of the Library have worked closely with community schools for years.

The Childrens department works with elementary school teachers to aid in their in-service training and provides supplementary materials to use with their curriculum. The Young Adults department works closely with all middle and high schools throughout Allen County including public, private, and parochial schools to provide training for students on how to use the Library resources.

Other departments like Reader's Services, Business and Technology, and Art, Music, and Audio Visual also maintain regular working relationships with teachers of all grade levels. This existing dialogue between Library staff and teachers forms a strong foundation for the project.

Another major resource is the public access center itself. The Access Center staff will dedicate a part of their time to this project on an ongoing basis. The equipment will also be available for use in training and development of new productions. For instance, the television studio is usually open in the mornings and early afternoons and can be scheduled for school productions.

Our proposal builds onto the modular concept that CTPAC discussed and approved at its June 18th meeting. The modules are:

- MODULE A - Playback facility
- MODULE B - Remote Production Facilities
- MODULE C - Satellite feed to import education programs
- MODULE D - Training and development

Our plan is broken into three phases that coincide with the funding cycles you have set forth.

PHASE I - FALL 1987

This is the start-up phase for the channel. Most of the tasks will be performed by staff of the access center, the Library, and volunteers from the Library and community.

It includes preparation for management of the channel, purchase of equipment for the channel's headend, contacting of the schools to obtain messages for the School Bulletin board and programming for the channel, and will result in the channel being on the air within 3 months after the grant is approved. (This coincides with Module A and Module C)

PHASE II - SPRING 1988

This begins the intensive training and production phases for the channel. It includes hiring of the Educational Access Coordinator, conducting production classes at the various schools selected as remote studio sites, and some purchase of production equipment by the schools. (This coincides with Module B and D)

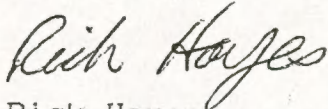

PHASE III - FALL 1988

This phase continues the playback, training, and production elements. We will offer regular production classes at the remote studio sites; new productions will be created and air regularly, and the channel itself will become part of the resources available to teachers for educational uses during class.

Additional funding will be needed for salary of the Coordinator and additional production equipment could be requested to create other remote studios in schools. This phase takes the modules A - D into active and regular usage.

I will be glad to provide other information to support this proposal. We look forward to being a part of this exciting development for our community.

Sincerely,

3. Description of Group: (When/how organization started, statement of its purpose, prior and current activities, accomplishments and/or awards, experience in cable communications/video productions.)

The Allen County Television Center (ACTC) was created in January 1981 to be the public access center for our community. It exists to enable citizens to exercise their right to free speech, and provides an outlet for diversity of ideas and opinions on cable television. ACTC acts as a catalyst to bring together talented producers and creative technical crews from our community who produce an average of 90 new programs each month. The programming on channel 10 has consistently been recognized for its high quality by the National Federation of Local Cable Programmers (NFLCP) and has won 3 national and 22 regional awards for excellence in community programming.

4. What Community needs will this project/program address? Support your reasons for project with evidence drawn from your experiences/data.

This project will bring to the community a much needed television resource aimed at satisfying the needs of elementary and high school students, their teachers, their parents, and the community at-large. The cable channel that has been set aside for this purpose has never been used for local educational programming and will revert to the control of the cable company if this channel is not activated soon. The access center has received numerous requests for school productions in the past, several of which have aired on channel 10. Once this channel is activated there will be many schools who will bring the TV programs they already produce to air on the new channel. Other schools will join in the production of new programs, and teachers will be able to use the channel as an adjunct to their class room work materials.

5. In light of the above needs, what are the specific objectives to be accomplished by this project/program? Objectives are the outcomes of your project and should relate to the benefits gained by constituents served by your program. Include the time when objectives will be met.

	After grant approval
-Activate the channel and begin airing locally produced programs	(1-3 mo)
-Select high quality educational programs produced outside our community to air on the channel to serve educational purposes.	(1-3 mo)
-Begin running school bulletin board messages on the channel	(1 mo)
-Contact schools to initiate development of programming	(2-3 mo)
-Conduct training sessions for school producers	(2-3 mo)
-Implement process to hire Educational Access Coordinator	(3 mo)
-Coordinate production of new programming at local schools	(3rd month onward)

6. What priority does this project/program have in relation to other activities planned/carried out by your organization?

The establishment of the Educational Access Channel is a high priority project for the ACTC. In the past we have worked with several producers from local schools to bring educational programming to the public on Ch. 10. Programs like "Homework Hotline" which has been offered twice a week live during the school year since 1984 serve as an example of the commitment the Access Center has toward educational programming.

The Allen County Public Library is, of course, dedicated to the improvement of educational resources for our community.

7. Project Narrative - Methods/Contents: a) Clearly describe the project activities in a step-by-step approach within a specified time frame. b) If video production, describe briefly the planned content of the program, and note the number of producers, technicians, talent, etc. c) List the significant people involved in his project and their responsibilities.

-Comcast Cable would be contacted to make plans to move the modulator for channel 27 to our offices at the Library.
-Necessary electrical and video wiring would be put in place for program playback
-Equipment needed for program playback would be ordered.
-A survey would be undertaken to ascertain what programming is now being produced and take requests for playback times
-Channel 10's Program Director would begin creating Ch 27 program schedule
-Training sessions would be offered at local schools in video production
-The Educational Access Coordinator would be hired to conduct training and assist in development of future programming
